

How to put a hint or example inside the entry-field and combo-box controls when they are empty.

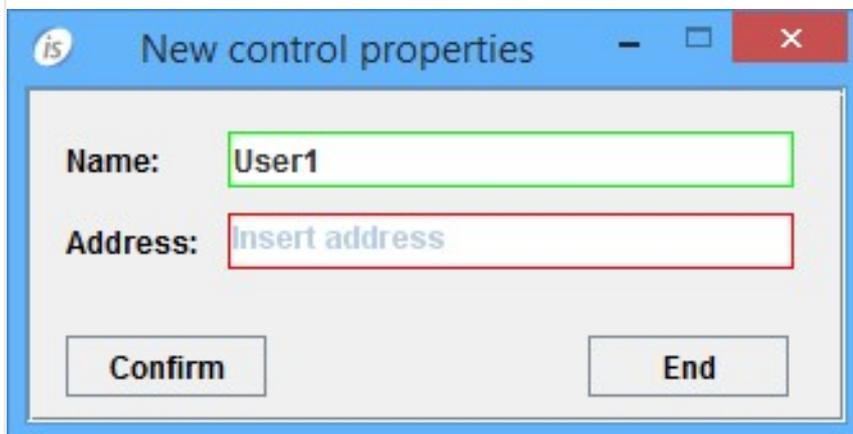

User Interface

You can use the PLACEHOLDER property to display a hint inside the control when its value is empty. This helps users understand the type of information expected in the input field.

The following example demonstrates how to apply the PLACEHOLDER property to an ENTRY-FIELD:

03 efname entry-field line 2 col 12 size 30          placeholder "Insert name" 03 eaddress entry-field line 4 col 12 size 30          placeholder "Insert address".

The image shows the final result, with text in the first field and the PLACEHOLDER value in the second, empty, field:
