How can I tell if my application is running in the WebClient environment or another environment?